Designing for Community Wellness

Allied Media Conference July 2020
#AMCCommunityCare

Community agreements

- Everything said here in confidence
- All experiences are valid and valued
- Lean into discomfort
- Recognize we're all working on our growth as a community
- Allow time for others and their ideas

KICKING OFF

Today's plan

Shifting the narrative from “Me” to “We”

- Self Care vs Community Care
- Shifting to We
- Designing Together
- Resources & Closing Words

Self
Care

vs

Community
Care

What is Community Care?

“People committed to leveraging their privilege to be there for one another in various ways.”

Nakita Valerio, community organizer

Shifting to We

#AMCCommunityCare

Self care solves individual problems, not the deeper rooted issues

With community care, we gain validation from one another and create resilience and perseverance when we have others along the ride.

Our role in social change

Replying to @JessLivMo

My self care is organizing. It doesn't give me rest, but it gives me purpose. It doesn't give me peace, but it gives me a way to create justice. It doesn't let me look away, but it gives me the chance to fight.

Deepa Iyer, My Role in a Social Change Ecosystem: A Mid-Year Check-In

The background of the slide is a complex collage. It features a crowd of diverse people, many of whom are wearing patterned shirts or hoodies. The entire image is overlaid with a dense, vertical pattern of blue and white lines, giving it a digital or glitch-like appearance. The text is centered in a bold, white, sans-serif font.

Let's see what types of social change agents we have in our community!

Designing for Community Care

Questions to Consider

Inclusion

Who's involved?
What are their needs?

Resilience

What are the underlying issues?

Perseverance

How can we sustain community overtime?

Exercise

How might we elevate mental health in a isolating and polarized world?

Inclusion Who does this impact?
